COCKTAILS

Bowery Lane has a range of inspirations in creating our cocktail list. The golden age of cocktails (Jerry Thomas) 1880's - 1890's is interweaved with (Pre) Prohibition (1919-1933) & Cocktails that came from that Era form our framework. General Americana & New York inspirations through common knowledge and media along with our appreciation for coffee are then used leaning on the history of Bowery and its relation to the farm lands.

The historic 1.5 mile (2.4 km) Bowery is the oldest thoroughfare on Manhattan Island. It was a dirt trail etched by the bare feet and moccasins of the Native Americans. The Bowery's first residents were ten families of freed slaves in 1645.

Then in the late 17th century when the Dutch settled Manhattan island, they named the path Bouwerij road. "Bouwerij" is an old Dutch word for "farm" and was appropriate as it connected farmlands and estates on the outskirts to the heart of the city in today's Wall Street and Battery Park area. By the end of the 18th century, the Bowery became New York's most elegant street, lined with grand theaters, soaring banks, mansions of prosperous residents and fashionable shops.

During the Civil War era, the mansions and shops had given way to low-brow concert halls, brothels, German beer gardens, pawn shops, and flophouses.

The Bowery also marked the eastern border of the slum of "Five Points" - popularized in the movie Gangs of New York. The Bowery then became the turf of one of America's earliest street gangs, the native Bowery Boys. Additionally, at the end of the 19th century, many low quality tenements were built to accommodate the many immigrants pouring into the city. The construction in 1878 of the Third Avenue Elevated Train (deconstructed in 1955) over the Bowery added pollution, darkened the streets below and further precipitated the decline of the area. It is also a fact that the Bowery is the only major thoroughfare in New York never to have had a single church built upon it.

COCKTAILS

THE BELFORT COLLINS

"When life gives you lemons, you make Lemonade" ... Right?

Well, Not If your name is Jordan Belfort!

We have paid homage to The Wolf of Wallstreet by adding a hint of Jordan Belfort like shenanigans to the classic Tom Collins.

A really refreshing & balanced aperitif to get the juices flowing through the acidity of the lemon, the confectionary like sweetness of the grapefruit bitters and the herbaceous aromatics of the Pernod.

Tanqueray Gin, dash Pernod, Grapefruit Bitters, Lemon, Soda Water

HAVAN'A GOOD TIME

The Daiquiri, once the favorite of Ernest Hemmingway and John F Kennedy is a classic 'Latin American Cocktail' that really found its place in the markets of America in the 40's due to the 'Pan American Program'.

Classic Daiquiri - Stolen White Rum, Lime, Simple Syrup

Our original Daiquiri with a seasonal twist with a base of Stolen Rum

EL TRÉBOL DE LA SUETRE THE LUCKY CLOVER

A Bowery Ln original inspired by "The Clover Club" - that pre-dates Prohibition and is named for the Philadelphia men's club of the same name.

Our twist comes in the form of Blanco Tequila and offering a hint aromatics through Rose Syrup.

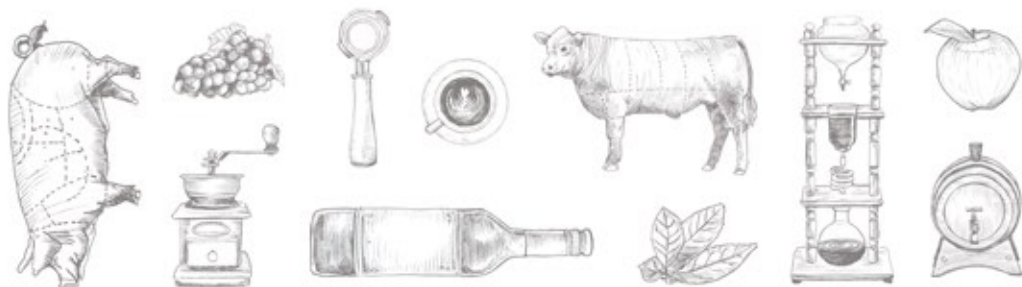

Think a "Turkish Delight" on holiday in Mexico

Calle 23 Blanco Tequila, Lemon, Raspberry Syrup, Rose Syrup, Egg White

COCKTAILS

THE BOURBON CRUSTA

A shaken twist on a classic “The Brandy Crusta – Jerry Thomas (1862)”, Jerry Thomas was one of the first inventors and innovators of cocktails as we know them now. When Mr. Thomas was first mixing cocktails there was a very specific definition for a cocktail – it was a blend of spirits, water, sugar and bitters. He broke all the rules by adding citrus and keeping the sugar external. We have taken the same specs for the classic, replaced the cognac/brandy with Buffalo Trace Bourbon.

A good balance between sour and dryness offered by a hint of Luxardo, Overall it will remind you of a lemon sherbet. This is the kind of cocktail you can use to taste if you are a non bourbon drinker!

Buffalo Trace Bourbon, Cointreau, Luxardo, Lemon Juice, Sugar, Bitters

COCKTAILS

KRAKEN NEGRONI

Another twist on a classic “The Negroni – Count Camillo Negroni (1919)”.

This drink is said to have been invented by Count Camillo when he asked a bartender at Caffè Casoni (Florence, Italy) to strengthen his favorite cocktail, The Americano, by adding gin rather than the normal soda. We have played with the recipe to find the best balance between the sweetness of the Kraken Spiced Rum and the bitterness of the Campari.

A Perfect aperitif offering the balance of bitter to sweet to help open your appetite. The slow nature of this cocktail allows to build a viscous texture to highlight the sweetness of the Kraken, which in turn highlights the bitterness of the Campari.

Kraken Black Spiced Rum, Campari, Carpano Antica Formula

PHARMACEUTICAL STIMULANT

This Cocktail was first created by Dick Bradsell and has evolved to become the modern “espresso martini” we know today. What make our “stimulant” different to most is the cold drip coffee. Allowing us to showcase a softer textured martini with full complex flavors of coffee, chocolate and spice. Definitely a nice way to end a meal and a safe recommendation for the lovers of the tradition “espresso martini”.

Ketel One Vodka, Mr Black Coffee Liqueur, Cold Drip Coffee, Spiced Vanilla Syrup

A FRENCH 3 WAY

I'm sure your first thought of this cocktail was one of sultry seduction after a few too many drinks with some #upforit friends. Unfortunately, it's just a name!

It's a name derived from three French ingredients that come together and offer a Moulin Rouge-esque sexiness with a base of fresh berries muddled in Grey Goose, a hint of herbaceous goodness through the Chartreuse and a cleansing finish with little pops of Orgasmic CO2 offered by the Mumm Champagne.

Definitely a drink that you can start on OR - If your heading out on the town after dinner - this maybe a perfect refresher!

Grey Goose Vodka, Chartreuse Yellow, Mumm Champagne,
Mixed Berries, Lime

SALTED MAPLE OLD FASHIONED

An Old fashioned follows the original definition of what cocktails were then - Blend of spirits (usually bourbon or rye), Water, Sugar & Bitters. The Old Fashioned is possibly now "the manliest cocktail" someone can order but probably something "your grandmother drank" or in some of your cases "your great grandmother".

As much as it is probably the oldest of old cocktails and the original will have a great place in every bartender's heart. The simplicity of this cocktail has given almost every bar a platform to make a statement, a surface on which every bartender leaves a thumbprint.

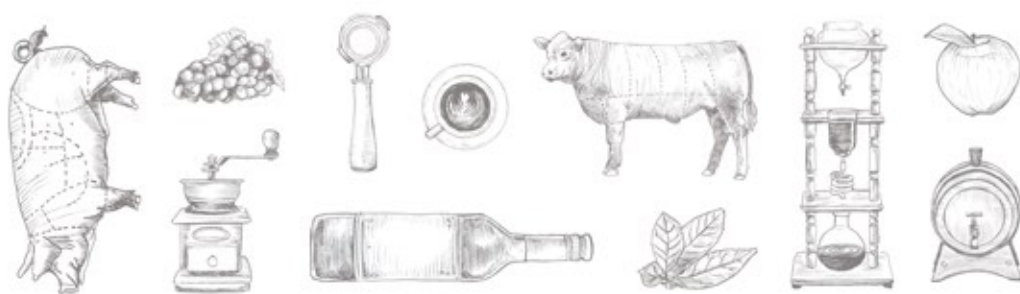

Our Old Fashioned - Contrary to what the name suggests we do not add any salt this cocktail. Instead, we use "Talisker 10" one of the saltiest whisky's out there and we work in reverse - to highlight the saltiness we offer the opposite.

Talisker 10, Hickory Smoked Maple Syrup, Whiskey Barrel Aged Bitters
